DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-3, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by CHAN et al. (U. S. Patent No. 6,275,726 B1). Chan discloses a method of delivering a clarifying agent past a surface permeability layer of skin to covered biological tissue to enhance optical transparency.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-8, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over CHAN as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of EDWARDS (U. S. Patent No. 5,833,647). Chan discloses the claimed invention except for delivery by sonophoresis, electroporation, temperature gradient, iontophoresis. Edwards teaches the use of these methods to delivery drugs to a patient. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the teachings of Edwards in the method of Chan in order to effectively deliver a medicament transdermally.

Claims 7 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over CHAN as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of WEAVER et al. (U. S. Patent No. 5,019,034). Chan discloses the claimed invention except for using optical pressure and solvent to deliver the agent. Weaver teaches the use of optical pressure to drive molecules across skin barrier and penetrating solvents to increase skin permeability. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the teachings of Weaver in the invention of Chan in order to effectively deliver fluids past the skin barrier.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over CHAN as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Henry et al. (J. Pharm. Sci. 87(8) pp 992-925). Chan discloses the claimed invention except for delivering the agent using needles to increase the skin permeability. Henry discloses using microneedles to increase skin permeability. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the teachings of Henry in the invention of Chan in order to effectively deliver molecules across the skin barrier.
